Health

Health isn't limited to what we eat or physically do; health encompasses the broader mechanics of our daily lives. For instance, hygiene doesn't first spring to mind when we think of our health, and yet our body and oral hygiene is vital for our well-being. Bacteria builds and breeds very quickly, toxins and parabens can swiftly enter our bloodstream through the use of chemically based products that we use to clean our bodies, homes, offices, dinnerware, and laundry with. In essence, we need to stretch out our thinking in terms of our health and realize that it is the smaller pieces of the puzzle that create the complete picture. It's never too late to make changes if you are generally health aware, consider how you can enhance this and encourage even better health. If you know that changes are needed- start now with all the small stuff! Here are some of nature's miracles that you can introduce for improved health and well-being.

1. Paraben free soap and personal care products

Parabens have had links to tumors and cancers and are increasingly gaining popularity for being harmful to health. Parabens are preservatives that are commonly used in the everyday products and cosmetics we may use on our skin and hair. The important thing to note is that there are alternatives on the market, and there are more and more labels that we see on these types of products that clearly state "paraben free"...perhaps this is largely due to an increased demand for healthier options as we all become more mindful of our health. Alongside parabens, Sodium Laureth Sulfate is one to try and avoid...even if you love your bubbles and suds in the bath, also known as SLES, it is a very inexpensive yet effective foaming agent- a surfactant that can be toxic and cause skin irritations.

Take notice of the ingredients before you buy, and aim to move toward a cleaner way of cleansing!

2. Go back to basics with nature

Just as we can go back to basics on our nutritional habits by eating more fruit and vegetables in their rawest form, we can strip back our personal care routines for better health also. Nature's miracles such as essential oils, aloe vera, and virgin coconut oil are multi-use and very effective anti-bacterial, anti-viral, anti-inflammatory and anti-fungal ingredients for personal care and hygiene. We can step back from all the harmful thickening agents, artificial colors and preservatives and toxins by simply realizing that nature has her own gems to share with us. Try switching one or two products at a time and notice the small changes in how you feel and look.

Many personal, care and hygiene products can easily be made at home, if you lack the time to do this, shop around for cleaning and hygiene products that match the lifestyle you wish to create.
